Good morning, I hope most are looking at empty fields or not much left standing, typically the weather taking a nosedive this weekend will see damp straw left in rows that will need a little shaking out if you were close to wrapping 2024 harvest up, the next big question been when to start drilling next year's crops?

To start on a positive a very small lift in SPP of 0.05p/kg and the European market standing on again last week making it the third consecutive week, albeit would be nice to see a small upwards trajectory leading to the Christmas period. Starting to think of the festive month some abattoirs are already planning their run up to December asking TVC for updated forecasts, its maybe a good time to re-visit your 13 week forecast and potentially look at where you can start pulling forward to avoid any bulges and hold ups in production, as we know the 2 shorter weeks at Christmas/New Year, also hamper things, and this year will be even more disruptive due to the main holidays falling on a Wednesday.

This leads me nicely onto TVC over the last week have had numerous enquires with availability of Store pigs looking for a comfortable new homes, if you have empty housing space large or small please get in touch we would happily help fill it.

As mentioned previously, you are now able to vote for the allied industry member of the year, which we Thames Valley Cambac have been put forward for so please see link here to cast your vote: <https://nationalpigawards.co.uk/2024/en/page/npa-allied-industry-member-of-the-year>.
