The 2nd of December where has this year gone? Christmas lights and decorations going up and a small buzz of festive spirit! A little like SPP last week seeing the first small increase of +0.28 pence since w/c 07.09.24 slaughter numbers are staying above 60,000 and reports from a certain abattoir 'they just cannot keep up with demand', unfortunately sow price remained unchanged, highlighting the continued stagnation in this part of the Market.

Briefly the EU market stood on for the first time in 10 weeks, leading us to believe stability is on the horizon which can only benefit ours.

The countdown is officially starting for the 3 full weeks kill, please remember most outlets will be around 50% kill capacity over Christmas and New Year, not factoring in weather issues or abattoir breakdowns, alongside the fluctuation in seasonal consumption trends playing a part in numbers.

As always, please remember to be extra vigilant on farm over the festive period.
